From the Secretariat

For Release March 18, 2010

ICAC Researcher of the Year 2010

Applications for the "ICAC Researcher of the Year, 2010" are being accepted until March 31, 2010. All information about the program, including where and how to apply, is available on the ICAC web page at <http://www.icac.org> under "ICAC Researcher of the Year." Applications sent to nominations@icac.org go directly to the panel of judges. Applications sent to any other address, or applications received after March 31, 2010, will not be considered.

Researchers from universities and public sector research organizations are eligible to apply for the award directly or through their heads of institutions. In addition, colleagues can make a nomination on behalf of fellow researchers. Researchers from all disciplines of cotton production research, including ginning, fiber quality and textile research, are eligible for the award. Non-English speaking researchers are also encouraged to apply but they must submit their applications translated into English.

(Press releases are available via e-mail. To register for this free service, send your contact information to publications@icac.org)

The Secretariat of the Committee publishes information related to world cotton production, supply, demand and prices, and provides technical information on cotton production technology.
