Estimated World Production and Consumption for the 2021/22 Season

World production for the 2021/22 season is estimated to be at 25.75 million tonnes and while that is 6% higher than the previous season, it is lower than pre-pandemic levels. Among the largest world producers, the United States, Brazil and Australia expect higher production than in the previous season but the estimated production for India and China is forecast lower than the previous season. The ending stocks for the 2020/21 season have been lowered to 20.11 million tonnes due to the adjustments in trade, estimating the world cotton supply to be 45.86 million tonnes for the 2021/22 season.

The world consumption for the 2021/22 season is estimated to be 25.90 million tonnes. The leading cotton consumers are expected to remain the same as in the previous season, with consumption being led by China, followed by India, Pakistan and others. Although still facing import sanctions, China's consumption in 2020/21 was at 8.40 million tonnes, the highest it has been in the last three seasons and is estimated to be at 8.20 million tonnes for the 2021/22 season. India's consumption is expected to be at 5.89 million tonnes for the 2021/22 season, 5% higher than the previous season. Pakistan and Bangladesh are also expected to have high levels of consumption.

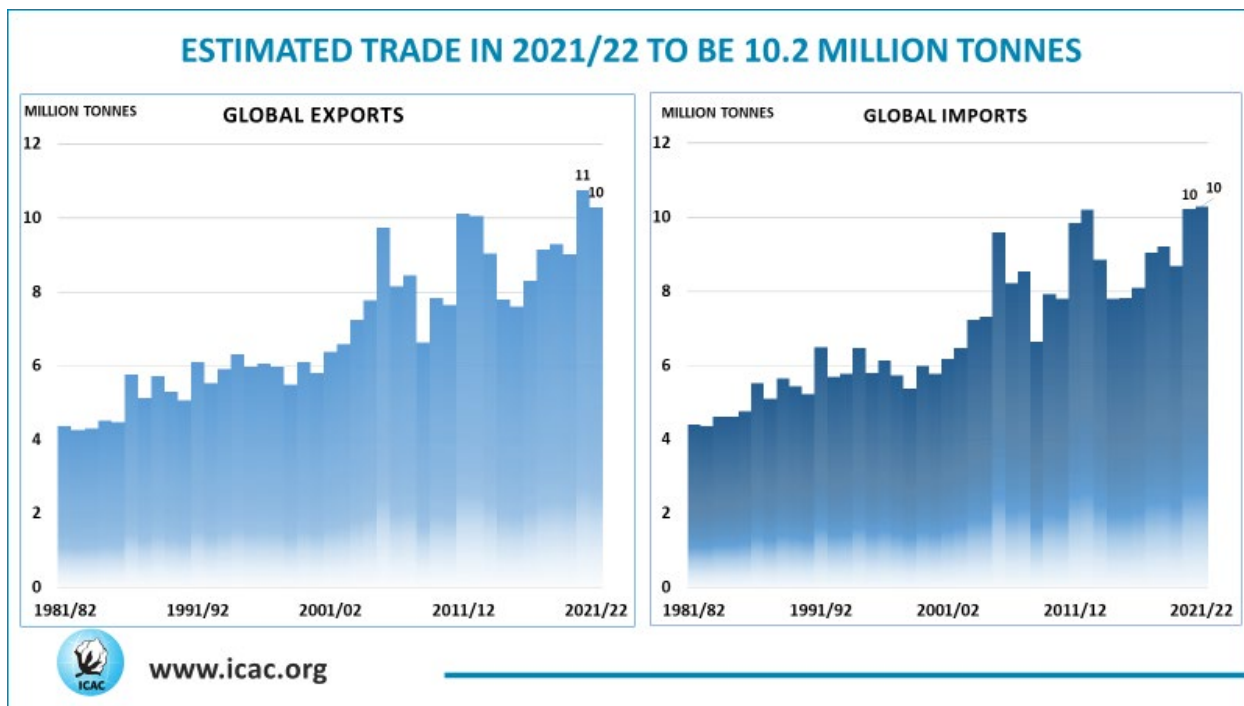

The 2021/22 Season Is Expected to Remain Positive for Cotton Trade

Trade is estimated to be at 10.29 million tonnes for the 2021/22 season. The 2020/21 season saw trade reach one of the highest levels ever. Disruptions caused by pandemic had negatively impacted the cotton trade in the 2019/20 season, reducing consumption and trade and increasing ending stocks up to 22.14 million tonnes. However, the first quarter of 2021 witnessed a slowdown in the spread of the virus and the rollout of vaccines, which led to a revival of the global economy and increased consumer demand. The subsequent revival of consumption in the 2020/21 season and the higher ending stocks from the 2019/20 season picked up the exports with stronger-than-expected levels to reach one of the highest levels ever: 10.75 million tonnes.

The trade sentiment is estimated to remain positive for the current season as well, with the ending stocks for the 2020/21 season at 20.11 million tonnes, 9% lower than the previous season. Trade also depends on the final harvested area and cotton production numbers. Meanwhile, high textile retail sales numbers in the developed economies continue to create a positive environment for cotton demand.

Price projections

The Secretariat's current price forecast of the season-average A index for 2021/22 ranges from 82 cents to 127 cents, with a midpoint at 101.60 cents per pound.
